

DIXON'S GREATEST AUTO SHOW OPENS THURSDAY

SMALL AND PARTY GREATLY PLEASED WITH RECEPTION

Warmth of Welcome in Dixon Gratifying to the Governor.

At least 1200 Dixon and Lee county men and women heard Governor Len Small, Oscar Carlstrom and Mrs. C. G. Shepherd talk on the issues of the Illinois primary campaign at the Dixon Theater Saturday afternoon. The meeting was as splendid one. The theater was packed to capacity and about 100 were accommodated on the stage while the aisles and spaces in the back of the theater were filled by people standing up. Several hundred were turned away after the place was filled. Dixon's reception to the Governor was very gratifying to the chief executive and his party.

The speeches were all received with enthusiasm and it was very apparent that the crowd with "with the Governor" from the start.

Mayor F. D. Palmer introduced the speakers, and in introducing Governor Small he made reference to the bitter newspaper campaign against the Governor by saying that the information published in some of the papers against the Governor was but propaganda intended to mislead us in our judgment of the chief executive.

Dixon Woman Spoke
Mrs. C. G. Shepherd's talk on "Why Women Should Vote for Governor Small" was especially interesting inasmuch as it came from a Dixon woman who is very active in civic and woman's clubs work.

Oscar Carlstrom, Past Commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, made a rousing speech that struck a popular keynote in his defense of Governor Small and his record. When Mr. Carlstrom was introduced a group of United Spanish War Veterans, carrying their flag, stood at attention on the stage of the theater and saluted their comrade. Mr. Carlstrom, who is a candidate for Attorney General, is very popular among the ex-service men of the state, and is Past Commander of the Illinois U. S. W. V. Governor Small's speech, which was presented in Saturday's Telegraph, was lengthy and in detail, but highly interesting to his audience and was received with constant spontaneous applause.

Strict Neutrality Urged on Marines Waters of Honduras

Washington, March 3.—Strictest neutrality as between the rival revolutionary movements in Honduras has been enjoined upon American naval commanders in Honduran waters. They have been directed by confine themselves strictly to the protection of American lives and interests and not to permit their operations to assume the appearance of American intervention.

Forces of the de facto government were seriously defeated yesterday by a revolutionary column at Tamara, 15 miles west of Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital. Presumably an attack on the capital is imminent. The cruiser Denver still is at Ceiba and the cruiser Milwaukee is expected to arrive shortly at Amapala. American nationals and their property have been menaced by disturbances in those ports.

Ortgieisen to Ask Rehearing of Case By Supreme Court

(Telegraph Special Service)
Springfield, Ill., March 3.—Daniel Ortgieisen of Lee county has filed notice in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court that he will ask a rehearing in the case which he brought in the circuit court of Lee county against Abe Ackerman et al, to partition 205 acres of land belonging to estate of Wallace Seybert, deceased, who resided south of Dixon. Ortgieisen claimed his wife, Gertrude Ortgieisen, a grand daughter of Seybert, inherited one-sixth of the 205 acres under Seybert's will. The circuit court sustained the demurrer of the defendants and entered judgment for them, and the Supreme Court at its February term, handed down an opinion affirming the judgment of the Circuit Court.

The building in the Deatur cemetery will be along the same lines as that proposed for Oakwood. It will be somewhat larger with a capacity of 450 crypts. The present plans of the company call for work to start on the Deatur mausoleum as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

EX-SERVICE MEN TO HEAR BONUS BOARD'S AGENT

Curtis Wood to Help Them Secure Their Compensation.

The meeting of ex-service men of Dixon and community who have been having trouble in securing their bonus, which it was announced in Saturday's Telegraph would be held at the American Legion hall this evening, has been postponed until Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, and all former service men are cordially invited to attend at that time.

The postponement was made at the solicitation of Curtis Wood, special representative of the Service Recognition Board, who arrived in Dixon yesterday and asked that the meeting be delayed in order that there be no conflict with the Dixon Elks' Minstrels this evening. Mr. Wood will have some very valuable information for the ex-service men and will be able to accomplish much for them if given the proper co-operation, which he will explain Wednesday evening.

NEARLY TENTH STATE FARMERS HAVE WIRELESS

Rural Residents Take Great Interest in Radio's Use.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, March 3.—Between seven and ten per cent of the rural population of Illinois have installed radio receiving sets, the number being 20,845, according to a radio survey by the Illinois Agricultural Association. Counties near broadcasting stations report the greater number of sets. Madison county in the St. Louis district has 2550 sets, Rock Island county near Davenport, Ia., has 900.

Musical programs and good lectures are most popular. Many farm communities use receiving sets for their meeting programs. One man reported that "the women now divide their time listening over the telephone and the radio."

Report was given of a farmer who neglected his work because he sat up late listening in.

Coles county, not located near a broadcasting station, installed 100 sets in the last six months.

Sinclair Tells How Oil Stock is Held

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, March 3.—Harry F. Sinclair, chief owner of the Mammoth Oil Company whose lease of Teapot Dome is being investigated, today in a statement to stockholders of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, explained the relationship and responsibility of other companies with which he is connected with regard to the government project.

The Sinclair Refining Company, he continued, has almost completed a storage installation for the navy at Portsmouth, N. H., representing a cost of less than $1,000,000, which cost is to be liquidated by proceeds from royalty oil accruing to the government through Mammoth Oil Company appropriations.

Almost two-score persons were killed and about a hundred injured when a terrific explosion wrecked the plant of the Nixon Nitration Works at Nixon four miles from New Brunswick, N. J. The concussion rocked houses within a radius of many miles and was heard as far away as lower New York City and Brooklyn. Photo shows general view of the wreckage, taken by an NEA staff photographer before the dust had settled. The explosion is believed to have started in the boiler room of the plant. All that remains of the boiler room is shown in foreground of picture.

SETTLEMENT OF REPARATIONS IS THOUGHT NEARER

Franco - British Notes Pave Way to Accept Committee Report.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Paris, March 3.—Letters exchanged by the British and French premiers are considered in political and diplomatic circles as intended to create an atmosphere for the reception of the report of the reparations experts. It is taken for granted in well informed circles that the experts will make a unanimous report and that it will be so drawn that France will be likely to accept it.

WASHINGTON HOPEFUL

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, March 3.—Exchange of views between the British and French premiers is taken as a hopeful sign in official circles. Officials today avoided any authorized statement but they have made no secret of their conviction that a solution of the reparations tangle could be found only through the frankest interchange of views among the powers chiefly concerned.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

The committee's study would be based on the McKenzie bill, similar to the measure vetoed by President Harding, and proposals to make the principal form of the bonus payment a paid up life insurance policy. By Associated Press Leased Wire

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, March 3.—Cipher experts of the War Department who have been translating code messages found in the McLean telegrams, will be called first tomorrow when the senate oil committee resumes hearings. Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, chief prosecutor in the inquiry, said translations of the telegrams by the government experts did not differ materially from the paraphrases furnished the committee last week and made by the use of an old code of the Department of Justice.

W. J. Burns, chief of the department's bureau of investigation, will be questioned tomorrow as to how employees of E. B. McLean came into possession of this code and whether McLean is on the roll of the special agents at $1 a month.

Burns also will be asked about the "Mary" code message sent to one of McLean's confidential men at Palm Beach in which reference was made to Burns and to the "McLean investigation."

Mrs. Mary Duckstein, former private secretary to Burns and now an operative in the justice department, who sent the "Mary" telegram to her husband, W. O. Duckstein, probably will follow Burns.

TROOPS GUARDING GRAND JURY AS IT INVESTIGATES RIOT

Recent Clashes at Herrin Being Probed By Inquisitorial Body.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Danville, Ill., March 3.—Following the arraignment of more than two hundred Williamson county men and women charged with violation of the Volstead Law in United States District Court this forenoon, Judge W. C. Lindley threw a bombshell into the ranks of the alleged bootleggers by barring judges in city and state courts from appearing as attorneys for any of the defendants.

This order hit Judge W. Joe Hill, of Benton, and Judge Clayton of Johnston City, both of whom had appeared in court as attorneys for nearly fifty of those arranged. A similar order will be asked for by Special Prosecutor Lawrence T. Allen barring state's attorney and assistant state's attorneys from representing any of the defendants.

In barring judges, Judges Lindley stated at it was inconsistent for any official of the state, county or city to represent any person charged with violation of a federal law in a United States court.

Of the more than two hundred arraignments, there were only two pleas of guilty, J. G. Gregory, of Colp, and Tom Cromer, of Dumaine, both pleaded, pleaded guilty to possession of intoxicating liquor. Gregory was fined $550 and Cromer $250.

The majority of the others, all from Williamson county, were either represented by attorneys or the court made provisions for their defense, indicating an organized fight on the government charges.

All trials were set, starting March 24th.

Herrin, Ill., March 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Sworn in to investigate rioting on February 8, when Constable Caesar Cagle, alleged Klan leader was killed, and Deputy Sheriff John Layman, an anti-klan leader was shot, a grand jury was intrusted by City Judge Bowen with the duty of "cleaning up" Herrin. Disturbances due to alleged bootlegging and the efforts of liquor raiders, were to be investigated fully, the jury was told.

Beside sickness, Judge Bowen said, only one thing would unfit a juror for service, and that was membership in the Klan or the Flaming Circle, an anti-klan organization.

Outside the court, a Springfield company of militia was on guard.

The judge denied the rumor that "white washing was about to begin." He detailed these items for investigation: The killing of Cagle, the shooting of Layman, the attack on the hospital from where the militia took nine men charged with the death of Cagle, and the prevalence of "gun toting."

The inquiry, he said, would delve to the bottom and find who inspired the rioting. Both Judge Bowen and State's Attorney Duff expressed the

WOULD SUBMIT POSTAL WAGES TO COMMISSION

Postmaster New Says Readjustment is Needed Now.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, March 3.—Submission to a general body such as a congressional commission, of all proposals affecting increases in salaries and changes in conditions of employment involving increases in pay for postal service workers was recommended by Postmaster General New in a letter today. Mr. New pointed out that there are more than 50 postal bills pending in congress and it was probable a readjustment for the whole service along lines provided in the bills would involve an increase annually of $150,000,000. In addition he said, there are a number of bills proposing a reduction of postage rates.

Certain classes of employees are not provided for in the bills, he said, and any readjustment of salaries must necessarily include the whole establishment.

He said that the deficit for the present fiscal year is estimated at $30,000,000. Suggestions that the increase could be met by a revision of postage rates especially on 4th class (parcel post) matter, he asserted, were not based on reliable information which would justify them.

One World's Record Broken in Carnival at University of Ill.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Urbana, Ill., March 3.—One world's record was bettered, another equaled and four carnival marks were broken in Saturday's seventh annual Illinois Relay Classic.

Dean Brownell and Daniel Kinzie, Illinois, broke into world record class. Brownell topped the bar in the pole vault at 12 feet 10 1/2 inches, establishing a new indoor mark. Kinzie cleared the 75 yard high hurdles in 9 2-5, tying the mark set by Earl Thompson of Dartmouth in 1923.

DeHart Hubbard, Michigan negro, improved his own carnival record in the broad jump, making it 24 feet 7 inches. In the 1500 meter run Brown of Minnesota shortened the carnival's best mark to 4:08 2-5.

Two college relays set new records. Washburn triumphed in the medley with 3:44 4-5 and Western State Normal of Kalamazoo, Michigan, received credit for the new mark of 3:31 1-5 in the mile.

The brilliant performances assure Big Ten universities of representation on the Olympic squad, sport lovers said.

Hiram Johnston Does Not Wish Nomination

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Saginaw, Mich., March 3.—Hiram Johnston of Milwaukee does not want to be a candidate for president. He has so declared in a letter to the secretary of state in which he asks that his name be withdrawn as a candidate on the republican ticket in the Michigan presidential preference primary.

Johnston, an aged dirt farmer, was placed in nomination by petitions prepared by friends and neighbors. His name threatened to cause considerable confusion in the minds of voters because it is almost identical with that of Senator Hiram W. Johnson an avowed candidate.

Johnston wrote he had no ambition to participate in national politics and expressed embarrassment that his name should have been used.

belief that the inquiry would last two weeks.

By Associated Press Local Wire
Herrin, Ill., March 3.—Troops surrounded the city hall today where a special grand jury appointed by Judge Bowen held preliminary session in an investigation of the clash Feb. 2, between the Klan and anti-Klan forces, when Constable Cagle, a leader of the Klan, was killed and Deputy Sheriff Layman, anti-Klanman, was shot.

Captain W. J. Butler of Springfield, in charge of Company C, 130th Illinois Infantry, stationed here, has issued orders to search all persons entering the building for firearms.

The grand jury will hear evidence involving 15 men, three of whom were bound over by a coroner's jury.

BEGIN LIQUOR TRIALS.
Danville, Ill., March 3.—With the opening of the doors of the United States District Court room this morning, there were men, women and children waiting to secure seats, the advance guard of the 226 defendants and attorneys from Williamson County.

Nearly 100 of the delegation arrived here Sunday afternoon and the others got here this morning.

District Attorney W. O. Potter came up from his home in Marion. While he has no part in the prosecution of the Williamson county cases, he will be present during the March term of court and direct the policy of his office in all other cases.

Early indications were that the delegation from Williamson county reduced the gravity of the day's proceedings and were accordingly, but there was also every indication that the arrangements, which started shortly before 10 o'clock were going to result in wholesale pleas of not guilty.

Glenn Young, in charge of the Williamson county raids as a paid worker of the Klan, was expected to arrive here today. He has been subpoenaed by the government as a witness.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

ANSWERS "OUT-OF-TOWN"

Editor Telegraph—If "Out-of-Town," who wrote in the People's Column lives twenty miles from Dixon, what is to prevent their boys and girls from going to DeKalb, Rockford, Clinton, Freeport or LaSalle?

"Out-of-Town" must live 15 or 20 miles from one of these places and closing the theater in Dixon would not be of any advantage in keeping your boys and girls at home.

Why should you ask the people of Dixon to close their theater instead of giving them the same proposition you are up against? "Out-of-Town" is unfortunate in living twenty miles from here, but why should we wish on others, selves just what "Out-of-Town" is opposed to?

Have been in hopes that more would express themselves in your columns. If all will get out and vote there will be a four-to-one walk-away in favor of Sunday opening. "There is room in this world for all of us."

The Telegraph is in receipt of a letter on the Sunday show question signed "Saying it in the Name of the Lord," which we will be glad to publish if the writer will send in his or her name. The name of the writer will not be published, but it is essential that the Editor know from whom communications are received.

Darby's Orchestra Feature Act

Darby's orchestra was one of the fine acts at the Dixon theater last evening on the vaudeville bill and was a delight to the large crowd in attendance. They were compelled to respond to several encores and their program was most pleasing, comparing with any heard here this season.

Excitement may well feel proud of this organization.

Two Teams Tied Now in Van of Big Ten Conference Quintets.

Michigan dropped Chicago out of undisputed first place Saturday night when their team beat the Maroons 21-23. Minnesota checked Ohio by a 41-33 win. Wisconsin kept in the running by defeating Northwestern 23-13.

CATALINA FACES SECOND CHARGE OF BOOZE SALES

Accused of Selling Liquor After Court Enjoined Him.

Frank Catalina was arrested at noon today by Chief J. D. VanBibber on a city warrant charging him with selling intoxicating liquor from his home on Noble avenue and he was taken before Justice Grover W. Gehant in police court where he denied the sale and retained H. A. Brooks to represent him.

Catalina a few weeks ago was served with an injunction, issued out of the Circuit court by Judge Oscar E. Heard, restraining him, his wife, Mary Catalina, and daughter, Jennie Catalina, from manufacturing, possessing or selling intoxicating liquor at the home on Noble avenue, more familiarly known in police circles as Bootlegger's Knob.

His arrest was brought about when Chief Van Bibber stopped two young men who were coming out of the Catalina residence Saturday night at a late hour, one of them carrying a pint bottle filled with moonshine liquor, according to the police report.

Both men stated that they had purchased the liquor from Frank Catalina and paid $2 for the bottle. They were taken to the police station and the warrant for Catalina's arrest was issued. City Attorney E. E. Wagner is pressing the prosecution this afternoon in police court, it being at his instigation that the injunction was issued at the January term of the circuit court.

Sheriff E. C. Risley was called upon yesterday to locate and arrest Joe Morosillo on a state warrant issued by Judge Magistrate Edward Jones on a charge of assault and battery. John Rockliffe is the complainant in the case and alleges that while at the home of Isaac Berel, east of Dixon, he was brutally beaten over the head and about the face with a stove poker which was in the hands of Morosillo.

Morosillo had not been arrested early this afternoon, the sheriff's forces being unable to locate him.

He took suddenly ill on the Saturday before and passed away Tuesday at 12:40 p. m. Rev. and Mrs. Suechting will return to Dixon the latter part of this week.

TOMB OF EVE—
Eve's tomb or last resting place is claimed by the Arabs to be at Jiddah, the seaport of Mecca. There in a graveyard surrounded by high white walls, which has not been opened for a single interval for more than a thousand years, is a great tomb with a palm tree growing out of the stone roof, a wonder of the Orient in itself, which is supposed to mark the last place of rest of our first mother.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Storing Silver.
If silver is to be packed away for a long time, place it in a box of dry flour and it will remain untarnished.

Plumbing Cleaners.
When strong acids or very caustic alkalis are used to disinfect the plumbing, they should be followed, after a short interval, with a thorough flushing of the pipes.

Table Linen.
If table linen is of a good, heavy quality, it should never be starched. But if it is thin, a very little starch will give it body and an appearance of better quality.

Flaky Piecrust.
If you want your piecrust to be very flaky avoid rubbing the shortening too thoroughly into the flour. It should be left in small flakes.

Roasting Meat.
Put meat in the oven to roast with out any water in the pan. When it begins to brown is the time to add the liquid.

Friends Honor Birthday Mrs. Lee Lambert

Mr. and Mrs. John Warner and a party of about seventy-five friends of Mrs. Lee Lambert, gathered in Union hall Friday evening, and held a most enjoyable and happy surprise party and dance in honor of Mrs. Lambert's birthday, which takes place on Feb. 29th. Mrs. Lambert had other plans for the evening, but was enticed to go to Union hall where the many friends were already assembled. After the first most genuine surprise she regained her composure and the dancing was begun which continued until a late hour. However, at midnight, a fine supper was served, including a large birthday cake with seven candles, representing seven birthdays. Mrs. Lambert believes it is lucky to be born in Leap Year, and the many friends present wished her many happy returns of the day. She received several beautiful gifts and also a purse of money. There were several in attendance from Oregon, Sterling, Grand Detour, Pine Creek and Polk as well as Dixon friends. On leaving all expressed themselves as having spent a most delightful and happy evening.

Most Enjoyable Meeting Dorcas Society

A very enjoyable occasion was the meeting of the Dorcas Society of the Congregational church at the home of Mrs. Henry Bremer on Thursday last. It was not only a meeting of the society, but a farewell party for one of its members, Mrs. T. Altenderfer, who is leaving for the summer, to be spent at Grand Tower, Ill. After the business session of the society had been concluded the president with a few well chosen words presented Mrs. Altenderfer with a little gift from the society, to which Mrs. Altenderfer responded with many thanks, following with quite a talk and discussion of her new home and surroundings, which place she had visited during the holidays.

Mrs. Frank Messer responded to a request for a reading, and followed with an encore.

Mrs. Lillian Austin then read the following original poem:

Oh! that Dorcas Society of which we're so proud,
Has been gaining in members till its now quite a crowd.
We start with the alphabet, and go all down the line.
When a circle is formed the appearance is fine.

Now ladies and friends, we're prepared to unite
Anyone with our circle, who wants to live right
As to age, there's no limit, and we think you'll agree
That five cents per month is a very small fee.

And think of the comfort we may bring to others,
We are neighbors, daughters, sisters and mothers,
So now don't be bashful but sign your name here,
And give us a trial, if for only a year.

We are sure you'll be glad and will find it worth while
To meet us each month and receive a glad smile
We aim to promote friendship and good will toward all,
So visit your friends, and invite them to call.

We mix business with pleasure, have afternoon teas,
When we get that quilt started, we'll be busy as bees.
You'll not find a better little club in the land.

So if you would join us, just hold up your hand.

The program concluded and blocks having been cut for a quilt to be made by members of the society, a delicious picnic lunch was served. The guests departed expressing regrets over losing one of their most popular members, but having otherwise most thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon.

Who Pays Taxes?

EVERYBODY PAYS TAXES!
ONE may not own land, or a house or a business but one living a normal life lives in a house and follows some occupation.
HE who owns a house pays taxes direct. He who rents a house pays taxes indirectly through the owner.
An increase in taxes on real estate causes an increase in rents.
An increase in taxes paid by the manufacturer causes an increase in the price of manufactured articles.
THE railroads pay taxes direct to the state and national governments amounting to about 5 1/2 cents out of each dollar earned.
THE railroads pay their employees wages out of which the employees pay taxes both direct and indirect.
THE railroads buy material from the manufacturers who pay taxes both direct and indirect.

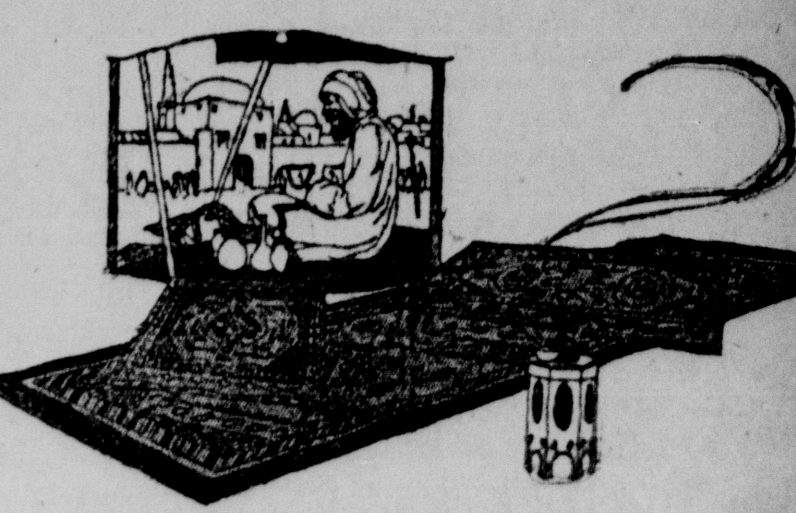

ECONOMISTS have figured out that one dollar in every eight of the nation's income is paid as taxes.
THE indirect taxes are approximately equal to the direct taxes.
THE direct taxes paid by the railroads plus the direct taxes paid by their employees, together with the indirect taxes paid by both, are equivalent to considerably more than one-eighth of the railway operating revenues.
IT would be more nearly correct to say that out of every dollar paid the railroads for transportation, twenty cents, or more, eventually finds its way through the various channels of taxation into the coffers of the government, national, state and municipal.

DEATH COMES WHEN BODY BURNS OUT.

When will you die? Unexpected accident or illness may hasten the date, snuff you out prematurely. But, on the law of averages, your number of years on earth depends to large extent on your speed of living—how fast you burn yourself out.

This is not speculative philosophy. It is exact science.

Max Rubner, who is a scientific sacred cow among physiologists, advanced this startling theory: Man is a furnace, born with a limited amount of fuel—potential energy.

At birth nature gives us a fixed amount of undeveloped units of energy. We can develop and use them normally, and die at the normal age. Or we can use them up fast, and die young. Many people develop only a fraction of their natural energy—the fire goes out for lack of fuel.

This is the Rubner theory: "For every pound weight of his body at maturity, the average man produces and consumes 362,900 calories of energy before he dies. Death comes when he has consumed that amount. Nothing that he can possibly do will make his body produce during adult life more energy than the 362,900 calories. And nothing can possibly prevent his death when this amount of energy is produced."

Lazy men are universally ridiculed. But lazy men usually are healthy and outlive the sprinters who burn themselves up prematurely. It's like a forest of thousands of acres which can be burned down overnight. The same forest, used up tree by tree, will keep a normal fireplace going for years.

You can walk across the continent, 3000 miles, taking your time at it, and finish "fresh." If you try to run the same distance, you'll die not far from where you start—only a trained athlete can run 25 miles.

Similarly, we can live quiet, normal lives, and live long. Or we can live fast, and die prematurely. Fast living is not strictly a matter of dissipation. Its usual form is overwork and nervous rush.

Life, of course, is relative. We people of 1924 cram into one year as many experiences, thrills and sensations as our ancestors had in years. A century ago, a man would have had to live at least ten years to enjoy as "much" as we of today do in one.

PONZI.

Do you remember him? It's almost four years since Ponzi began to work his frenzied finance scheme. The committee, appointed by the courts to liquidate his affairs, reports it has had over 11,000 claims presented to it, involving more than four million dollars. The Ponzi swindle would not have been possible except for the universal desire to get something for nothing. He beat them at their own game. Such is the case with nearly all swindlers.

GASOLINE SUPPLY.

The law of supply and demand is on the side of the oil industry instead of consumers. Final report shows that the American people in 1923 used a fourth more gasoline than in the year before.

Looking ahead about 10 years, it appears that alcohol will be the chief motor fuel.

GROUNDSWELL OF BUSINESS.

"The overshadowing business development of 1924, so far," says the Iron Trade Review, "has been the gigantic groundswell of production."

How great that swell is has not been appreciated. Out put in various lines has surpassed that of all previous years. The physical trade volume since early January is said to have expanded with a speed unequalled in more than two decades.

The steel industry is producing at a rate percent ahead of its big record for last year. Current freight traffic is 7 percent more than it was a year ago and automobile output is 40 percent more. There is about 4 percent more employment than a year ago, and productive efficiency perman is declared to be rising.

This is quite different from what the public expected. Instead of being steady but slow, industry and trade are steadily growing in volume, under impetus given by easy credit and strong demand for goods from all classes of people. It may be a great year for business, after all if the tendency to inflation is kept well in hand—and the banking system will probably see to that.

LOST OPPORTUNITY.

A common fault in business organizations is giving too much attention to getting new business and not enough attention to holding the old customers.

That's why many a concern, which imagines it is making progress, is really standing still. Similarly, many an individual is so interested in trying to get the job of the fellow on the next ladder rung above him that he forgets the chap below who is after his scalp. If the present job is handled well, the future will take care of itself automatically.

COUNTERFEIT.

Counterfeiters, who were arrested by secret service agents in an alleged plot to put phoney $1000 bills into circulation, overlooked the most important bit of all—the difficulty of changing a $1000 banknote. Any one who has ever tried it, knows. Small bills are easy to pass. But the $1000 bill runs into a third-degree.

The counterfeiters knew the production end. They didn't know the selling end, the problem of marketing.

The world would be much better if you could whistle with a pipe in your mouth.

You will find that three cheers beat six jeers.

Is Wall Street Too Crooked?

Senator King of Utah advocates a searching inquiry into the operation of all stock exchanges. He thinks Wall Street may be more crooked than it is paved. He wants to know why so many Wall Street firms go to the wall; why so many brokers become broke, and why so many people invest before they investigate.

EDITORIAL.

Several months ago insect voices were amplified by radio so they could be heard. Now a new device makes a man's heart beats audible 50 feet away. Such things show progress. Some day the voice of the people may sound as loud as it should.

STATISTICS.

All the trouble in Washington placed end to end reaches the conclusion something should be done.

MARKETS.

Prices seem to be among the many things made of rubber. When they hit the bottom they bounce.

HOME HELPS.

Nothing takes a man off his feet quicker than a good chair.

SPORTS.

Circus men meeting in Chicago decide to do away with acts where supposedly wild men eat raw meat and bellow at the spectators. But these wild men will not be out of work. They can always sign up with some baseball club as rookie pitchers.

POLITICS.

"Cox Enters White Horse Race," says a typographical error in the headlines. What little reader can show us the mistake? No, you are wrong. The "White" should be "Dark."

AUTO NOTES.

Why doesn't some maker put out a car with ready bent fenders so it will always look new?

FINANCES.

Talk may be cheap, but Vanderlip is being sued for $600,000 for what he said.

WEATHER.

Only a few more weeks until time to cuss the flies.

CONGRESS.

House. Investigation to investigate investigations started. Janitor asked to resign because oil was found in his hair. Talk plentiful but nothing said.

Senate. Investigation to investigate the investigation to investigate investigations started. Many more things done, but what's the difference?

SOCIETY.

Just when people were getting bridge down so they could play without cussing too much, mah jongg stepped in and demanded attention. Now that a few can play mah jongg it is time to make some other crazy game popular.

FASHIONS.

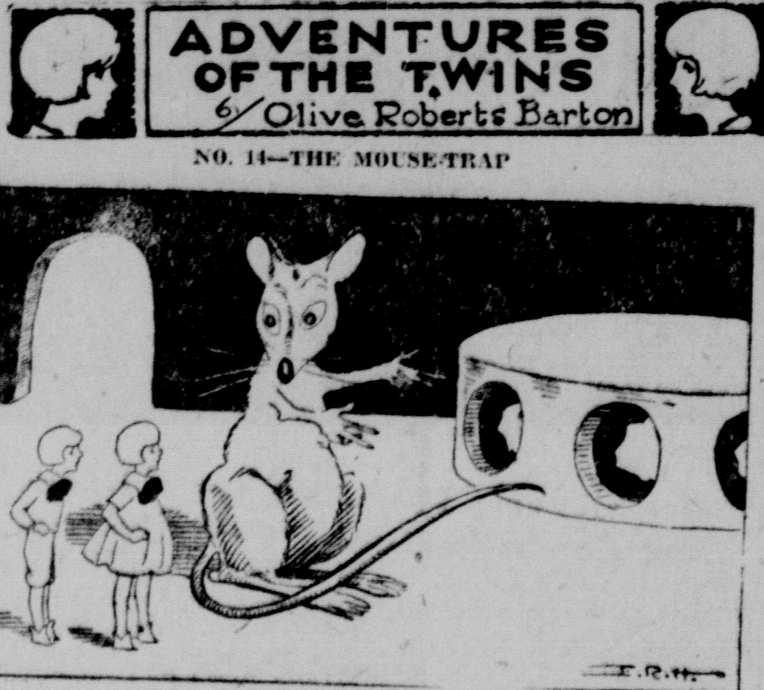

All the optimists are not dead. Corset Makers Association says the corset is coming back.

"There!" declared the Beanstalk Mouse.

"Now then," said the Beanstalk Mouse to Nancy and Nick when he had carried them safely out of the dark drain, "we are in the gardener's cellar where it is nice and dry. And now I shall show you the funny round dish the gardener has been kind enough to act for me."

"What is it like?" asked Nancy. "It's round and has holes in the sides, also some very shiny whirllights, with bits of cheese hung on them, all ready for me to dine on. I do think the gardener is a grand man to be so kind. But come on, I'll show it to you. It's right over here under the stairs. And you must be my guests and have not luck with me. There is plenty of cheese for all."

The Twins were not so anxious to share Mister Mouse's meal as they were to see the wonderful dish he spoke of. What kind of a dish could it be that had holes and whirllights in it? But Nick said he was sure they would both be much obliged to stay and everything, and after that all three of them went over to the dark place under the stairs.

"There!" declared the Beanstalk Mouse with a wave of his long tail. "There is the dish right there in the corner. And do you smell the cheese? Really it smells so delicious it almost makes me want to sneeze."

"Why!" gasped Nancy the minute she set eyes on it. That's a mouse trap, Mister Mouse!"

"A what?" shrieked the mouse, backing away in a hurry. "What did you say?"

"A mouse-trap," repeated Nick. "Those whirllights are springs, and if you touched any of them, you'd be caught."

"Are you sure?" exclaimed the mouse doubtfully.

FINIS

BY BERTON BRADLEY

I had some stocks
From out of which
I looked for riches.
To make me rich.
There was a crash.
The boom went flat.
I lost my cash—
And that was that!

I dreamed of fame,
I thought I'd make
A wondrous name
And no mistake!
Within the ring
I cast my hat
To hit me—bing!
And that was that.

I loved a girl,
My head and heart
Were in a whirl
Right from the start.
She wed a guy
Gony, old and fat;
I heaved a sigh—
And that was that.

So, to rehearse
What went amiss,
I wrote a verse—
And that was this!

is on next season's itinerary for the Russian danseuse and her company.

Opening her Chicago engagement at the Auditorium on March 3, with her Ballet Russe and Symphony Orchestra Madame Pavlova will have some real surprises, especially for those familiar with the traditional Pavlova offering. For in addition to the old favorites in her repertoire, she will present her impressions of the strange lands she has learned to know through her superb technique of dance and costuming.

"Oriental Impressions," as this new spectacle is called, will be shown in three features, Japanese, Hindu and Egyptian. Old Russian folklore also, of a type not before seen outside the dancer's native country will comprise the first week's repertoire, and will include such ballet as "Sleeping Beauty," "hopiniana," "Fairy Doll," "Amarilla," and "Snow flakes."

And as for the Beanstalk Mouse, he had scurried down a hole, long tail and all!

AMUSEMENTS

PAVLOVA AT AUDITORIUM THEATER, CHICAGO

The spectacle to be presented for two weeks at the Auditorium Theater beginning tonight, might well be named "Around the World with Anna Pavlova," containing as it does this great Russian dancer's impressions of the many countries she has visited and the many strange people whom she has enchanted—and who, in turn, have enchanted her artistic sense, since she last appeared in Chicago some years ago.

The coming of this incomparable artist again after her recent London, Paris and New York triumphs, is rich in promise for music lovers and devotees of the dance. Having visited Japan, China, the Philippines, Java, the Straits Settlements, India and Egypt, Pavlova may now be said to have given joy to almost the entire art-loving world, Australia being the only country where her dancing has not yet been seen. Australia, however,

"The Ten Commandments" Cecil B. DeMille's mightiest offering "The Ten Commandments" is now firmly established at Woods Theatre, Chicago as the greatest success of many seasons. All box-office records have been shattered by this wonderful offering which has been called the "greatest show in the world." Every seat has been sold for every performance since the premiere and it has been found necessary to place tickets on sale four weeks in advance. Mail orders will receive prompt and careful attention.

The prices at nights and Saturday matinees are 50c, $1.00, $1.50 and daily matinees 50c, 75c and $1.00. To this should be added the war tax of 10 percent.

Never before have the Chicago critics so enthused over a great picture. The Evening Post said:

"The Ten Commandments" startles you by its impressiveness and grandeur. The most wonderful photoplay production ever made. We wish every man, woman and child in Chicago could see it."

Margaret Mann Crollus wrote in The Daily News: "How inadequate the poor descriptive weaklings, tremendous, stupendous, magnificent, costly, epoch making, overwhelming seem when applied to 'The Ten Commandments'."

Ashton Stevens in the Herald and Examiner said: "The Ten Commandments" is worth not only the money but the time."

Virginia Dale voiced her praise in the Journal as follows: "There never was a show like 'The Ten Commandments.' Exquisite excitement followed on the heels of itself. There can be no doubt that the Woods will house a great success with this production. There will be no moaning about the price. It's worth it."

Rob Reel in the American added this tribute: "If last night's capacity audience is any criterion 'The Ten Commandments' is going to capture Chicago. Asgape at the spectacle un-reeled before them the spectators burst into applause time and again."

South Centrals Win
First Pennant Game

Before a crowd of spectators and rosters that filled the gym to overflowing the South Central basketball team defeated the St. Mary's five in the first game of a series being played to determine the championship of the grades, the regular schedule having closed with three teams tied for first place. The score was found to be 24-8 when the smoke of battle had cleared away with the South Central being in the lead. Although St. Mary's battlers were smaller and lighter than their opponents they stuck to the finish with all they had, but were unable to combat the onslaught of the Central five. This victory gives the South Central a grasp on the pennant, the owner of which will be decided on Monday afternoon when the E. C. Smith meet them in the final contest of the tournament.

The Pirates still retain their lead in the Junior B basketball championship, defeating the Wild Cats Saturday morning 6-0. The Wild Cats have so far, an unbroken string of defeats which leads one to believe that they are not as wild as their name implies. The Ace Highs were also successful in pulling another game out of the fire but had a tough time in doing so as they got but 3 points on the Cobras who gave them a real battle but who got no points.

The Sure winners sprung a surprise in the Junior A basketball games Saturday morning by trimming the Goof Kings 22-6. This is the first defeat for the Goofy guys and this loss puts them down to a tie for first place with the Sure Winners. As the last games on the schedule were played Saturday another match will have to be played next Saturday to determine the champions of this class. Hard Luck still pursued the Hard Lucks and they wound up their part in the tournament with a perfect record of losses losing to the Bean Kings by a score of 16-1.

Here's a Prize Beauty From Top to Toe

If this young woman were to enter a beauty contest, she'd stand an exceptional chance of winning four prizes—one for her face, another for her arms, a third for her form and the last for her legs. The difficulty is she isn't a young woman—she's a composite of four who have gained national fame for their beauty. The head is that of Kay Laurell, one of the most beautiful actresses on the stage. Eleanor Boardman owns the arms, considered the most shapely in screen land. The body is that of Martha Gonzales, whom artists have picked as the most Venus-like woman in America. And the legs are claimed by Gilda Gray of the Ziegfeld Follies, where the most shapely legs gather.

Gas tar workers are said to benefit from the tarry smell in which they work.

THE FORTUNE OF A FOOL

BY RAFAEL SABATINI
 ILLUSTRATED BY SAM BARTON

CHARLES SABATINI (1873-1923) RELEASED BY MRS. SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Colonel Holmes, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, his native land, when war with Holland is declared. It is dangerous for Holmes to secure a commission in the English army because the name of Randall Holmes, father of the colonel, is on the warrant for the execution of the king.
 The dreaded plague is spreading rapidly in London. A friend of the colonel, named Tucker, is arrested for plotting against the government. Because Holmes has been seen in Tucker's company, a warrant is out for his arrest.
 His Grace of Buckingham rents a house in Knight Ryder Street and plots to have Sylvia Farquharson, actress, abducted and carried there. Buckingham asks Colonel Holmes to abduct Sylvia and take her to this house for him. At first the colonel refuses.

Now go on with the story
 "Perhaps not. But a man standing in the shadow of the gallows should not be over-fastidious."
 The duke perished in the colonel's face; the haunting fear returned to his eyes. The duke, seeing him thus suddenly stricken by that grim reminder, was moved to sudden laughter.

"It seems you have to realize, Colonel Holmes, that there is no music without frets. You realize that I should ask a trifling service of you when in return I am offering to make your fortune. For that is what I am offering. You come as an opportunity to my need as to your own. Serve me as I require, and I pledge my word that I shall not neglect you."
 "You are a fool," faltered Holmes, protesting. "It is a task for bullies, for jackals."
 The duke shrugged. "Damm! Why trouble to define it?" Then he changed his tone again. "The choice is yours. Fortune makes the offer: gold on the one hand; hemp on the other. I do not press either upon you."

Holmes was torn between fear and honor.
 "I'll go my way, I think," he said heavily, and half turned as if to depart.

"You know whether it leads?" came the duke's warning voice.
 In silence Holmes bowed, and made his way to the door with dragging feet, hope's last bubble pricked.

And then the duke's voice arrested him again.
 "Holmes, you are a fool."
 "I have known it. I was a fool when I saved your life, and you pay me as a fool should be paid."

"You pay yourself. And of your own choice you do so in the coin." Seeing him standing arrested there, still hesitating, the duke approached him. His grace's need, as you know, was very urgent. It was no overstatement that Holmes' coming had been anticipated. The duke's need of Holmes the tool that he required so sorely, where should he find another? He set a friendly hand upon the colonel's shoulder.

And whilst the duke now talked persuasively, tempting him with promises on the one hand and intimidating him with a picture of what must otherwise happen on the other, the colonel's own tormented mind was recording the truth.
 "Were his hands really so clean, his life so blameless, his honor so untarnished, that he must boggle at this villainous, and boggle at it to the extent of allowing them to stretch his neck and disembowel him sooner than perform it? And what was this villainous when all was said? A baguette of the theater, a trill of an actress, had played upon the duke that she might make the greater profit out of him in the end. The duke, wearied of her tricks and wiles, desired to cut the game short. Thus the duke represented the situation. And what cause had Holmes to assume that it was other than a true representation? The girl was an actress and therefore, it followed, wanton. The puritanical contempt of the playhouse and its denizens—heritage of his own wealth days—left him no doubt upon that score. If she were a lady of quality, a woman of virtue, the thing would be different. Then, indeed, to be a party to such an act were a wickedness, unthinkable, a thing sooner than which he would, indeed, suffer death. But where was the villainess here, since the object itself was vile? Against what, then, really, did this thing offend? Against himself, against his soldier's dignity. The act required of him was one proper to a hired bully. It was ignoble. But he was hanging less ignoble? Was he to let them put a rope about his neck and the brand of the gallows on his name out of tenderness for a baguette of the theater whom he did not even know?

Buckingham was right. He was a fool. All his life he had been a fool, scrupulous in trifles, negligent in the greater things. And now upon the most trifling scruple of all he would flitly sacrifice his life.

Matters concluded with the merchant, the colonel went to take possession of the house, and he installed there two of the four French jacks the duke had lent him for myrmidons.

After that there was little to do but wait until Saturday. That evening, however, and the next, the colonel repaired to Lincoln's Inn to watch from a safe distance Miss Farquharson's departure from the theater, and so inform himself precisely of her habits in the matter. On both occasions she came forth at the same time—a few minutes after seven, and entered her waiting sedan chair, in which she was borne away.

On Friday evening Holmes went again, at six o'clock, and he had been waiting half an hour before the chair that was to convey her home made its appearance. It was the same chair as before and borne by the same men.

Holmes lounged forward to engage them in talk. Of set purpose and despite the warm weather, he had donned a well-worn leather jerkin to cover and conceal his fairly presentable coat.

He slouched toward the chairmen, pulling at a clay pipe, a man with time on his hands. And they, sitting on the shafts of the chair—one on each side, so as to balance each other—were nothing loath to have the tedious of their waiting beguiled by the tirade of his garrulousness as his appearance led them to expect.

He did not disappoint them. He talked of his pretensions and of the war, and of the favoritism practiced at Court, which bestowed commands upon all manner of incompetent fops and kept a hardened and stout old soldier like himself cooling his heels in London's plague-ridden streets.

On the following evening—which was that of Saturday—you behold him there again, at about the same hour, joyously hailed by Miss Farquharson's chairmen in a manner impudently blending greeting with derision.

They took the colonel between them, and with arms linked the three set a course for the little alchouse at the corner of Portugal Row. The colonel was more exultant than ever, and very confidential. He had met a friend, he insisted upon informing them—an old brother-in-law, who had come upon fortunate days, from whom he had succeeded in borrowing a good round sum.

Into the alchouse they rolled, to be skilfully piloted by the colonel into a quiet corner well away from the wind and down the light. He called noisily, tipsily, for the landlady, banging the table with the hilt of his sword. And when she made her appearance, he silenced her protests by his order. "Three pints of Canary stiffly laced with brandy."

The wine was brought, and the facetious pair swilled it greedily, whereafter they prated it, with rolling of eyes and resounding lip-smacking; they even subdued their raillery to the provider of this nectar.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

Your dear letter just received. Was there ever in this world as sweet a woman as you are, dear?

I cannot understand why you picked me out from the numberless men who must have laid their hearts at your feet. Every day I thank God many times that you did. I would be lost without you.

I have been a good deal of a letter, Leslie, but at that I think perhaps I will average up with other men. That makes me think of something Mrs. Atherton said yesterday that was rather funny.

I was remarking rather jokingly what an exemplary husband I had been since you went away, and she said, "Don't go and get proud of yourself. I never knew it to fall that when Sam began to swell with pride at his good conduct, he immediately began to pity himself, and as he called it 'spilled the beans'."

Your friend, Sally Atherton, is a queer combination and most interesting. She is quick and clever and brilliant. Sometimes I think she is the most selfish woman in all the world, and then again she seems the most unselfish.

She hasn't much use for a man as an appendage, but I rather think she is the kind of a woman that likes to feel she has only to beckon and someone will come to her.

She does her work like a man, tirelessly and vigorously. Altogether she is a great acquisition to my working staff.

The other day we worked steadily from luncheon until half-past seven on that Wire Brush contract which, you know, has been worrying me. She looked quite as flustered as I felt and I insisted she should go with me to dinner.

Although she said she would rather rest than eat, I know she had had no luncheon for she was typing a part of the advertising copy when I left for mine, and it was finished and laid on my desk when I returned.

One of the things I like about her is that she made no reference to the conventionalities as an excuse for not dining with me. She just said she was too tired to eat.

When I had convinced her that she needed food she merely stopped to run a comb through her bobbed hair, which you know is naturally curly, and powder her nose and we were on our way.

I was glad she went with me because from some little things she said I imagine she has been very lonely. I asked her if you had not been to see her, and she answered that you had called upon her twice, but she did not believe in mixing friendship with business.

I told her that was foolish and she answered enigmatically, "Perhaps."

There goes the telephone dear. I'll finish this letter when I come back. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

TOMORROW: Jack continues his letter to Leslie—All in appreciation.

ABE MARTIN

THE NUT CRACKER

THE BELLIGERENT CHILDREN

Tex Rickard, wholesaler in tin ears and busted beaks, threatens to import one Quentin Romero Rojas, self-confessed heavyweight champion of Chile and exhibit him before the pop-eyed gaze of American yokels.

Mr. Q. R. Rojas is said to have won the heavyweight championship of Chile by kicking a 14-year-old Mat-tese kitten on the whiskers, scoring what practically amounted to a clean knockout. Mr. Rojas is not only the best heavyweight champion ever produced in Chile, but the worst one. Chile has never been afflicted with any kind of heavyweight champion before, and is striving nobly to hide her shame.

Whether Rickard will bring Mr. Rojas over now or wait until late summer, when the import duty on cheese, hams and other perishable vegetables is attractively reduced, is a detail that remains to be worked out.

Mr. Rojas will be tossed into the ring with the Battling Tomatoes and the Fighting Bologna of the Great Stuffed Tribe and will proceed to build up a reputation as a European super man, wilder than Herrin, Ill., and tougher than a gold-toothed southerner.

Some bright young writer will pick out a picturesque handle for him, like "The Hot Pepper of the Chile Bowl," and the doddle Dempsey will be persuaded to step forward and enact the leading role in another edition of "The Battle of the Sinspary."

Mr. Rojas probably will last about as long against a third-rate American heavyweight as a good man's reputation in a Washington oil probe, but

Is Winter Time Your Backache Time?

DOES every cold, chill or attack of grip leave you lame, achy and all worn out? Does your back throb and achy until it seems you just can't keep going another day? Do you know these troubles are often due to weakened kidneys?

Winter's colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidneys. The kidneys are apt to weaken and fall behind in filtering the blood. Poisons accumulate and upset blood and nerves.

Then comes constant backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and kidneys irregularities.

Don't wait! Delay is often serious. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They are recommended by many Dixon folks. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Dixon Folks:

Mrs. J. R. Blackburn, 216 E. Sixth St., says: "At times I suffered from annoying dull pains through my kidneys. I noticed I was worse after taking cold and it caused my kidneys to be disordered. I got Doan's Pills at Sterling & Sterling's drug store and after using them awhile the trouble disappeared."

NEARLY FOUR YEARS LATER, Mrs. Blackburn said: "It is only at odd times that I use Doan's Pills now."

Geo. L. Richardson, retired farmer, 402 Lincoln Ave., says: "I had signs of kidney disorder such as a heavy, full feeling across my back just over my kidneys, especially when I have taken cold. The kidney secretions were somewhat retarded at times. Doan's Pills have always proved a very valuable remedy in curing these attacks."

this won't keep the customers away. They are gluttons for punishment and their favorite dish is European hoakum, served hot and often.

Interment will be private and owing to the native abhorrence of Chileans to slavish manifestations of grief, flowers will kindly be omitted.

In Barnum's day the birth rate was one a minute. By the introduction of efficiency and daylight saving time, Rickard has doubled the output.

Bill Lange came over from Australia with a heavy coat of lurid press agent paint and was knocked into a state of enduring coma by a dock hand. Bomb Wells wore out a full set of hand-engraved chins bouncing around on sundry American canvas mats. Carpenter would have gone over bigger as a Shubert chorus man.

Pirpo gave the fish a momentary thrill and then curled up with an apologetic quiver. Mr. Rojas is not expected to violate any of these old world customs.

Tex will now lead the Tunstille Quartet in that sentimental ditty dedicated to the Boxing Boobs of America.

questing that he throw it over to him so he could look it over.

Hasty stepped off the rubber, dropped his arms to his side, gave the ball the once over and shook his head negatively to let O'Leary know it was all right.

The umpire, believing that possibly the ball was damaged and a new one should be put in play, called time within hearing of the batsman and catcher, and was about to request that Hasty throw the ball to him, when O'Leary again made a request that he be allowed to take a peep at the ball.

Hasty, probably peeved that O'Leary refused to take his word that the ball was in good shape, threw the ball at the Yankee coach with great force.

Of course, O'Leary stepped aside and permitted it to roll to the grandstand, the three runners scampering over the plate.

It got a big laugh, but the umpire,

Getting Ready for Tomorrow

THE average man, busy with his own affairs, has little time to consider the vast amount of anticipatory work necessary to maintain a high standard of service in the petroleum industry.

Just as the merchant buys straw hats in November and furs in early summer, so does the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) prepare in winter to supply you in summer with the gasoline and other petroleum products you may need.

Today, this Company is spending millions of dollars to purchase crude oil and to convert this oil into refined products so that next summer it may meet its obligations to supply the demand for gasoline and other petroleum products when pleasant weather makes motoring attractive and agricultural activities necessary.

Such an effort takes on greater significance when it is known that the production of crude has been checked sharply.

The American Petroleum Institute reports that from September 8 to December 15, 1923, the production of crude oil fell off 337,400 barrels per day.

This brings production to a point where it is 56,709 barrels less per day than the estimated daily average consumption.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is preparing in advance to meet any demands which may be made upon it. It has a tremendous investment in storage facilities, located strategically throughout the territory it serves. By keeping this storage full it insures you an uninterrupted supply of petroleum products at all times.

To picture the enormous task confronting the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) it is only necessary to state that estimates made by the National Petroleum News indicate that the 1924 gasoline consumption will total 8 billion 236 million gallons.

With 31% of the automotive registrations of the country concentrated in the ten Middle Western States served by this Company, this estimate means that 2 billion 553 million gallons of gasoline will be required to supply these states.

Preparing now for the summer peak load is only another phase of the broad and comprehensive service rendered by this Company, which has gained the respect, confidence and esteem of the thirty million people of the Middle West.
